Mother Teresa and Tom Jones love child revealed

Mother Teresa and Tom Jones love child revealed.

(Catholic Progressive Weekly, Penance, Illinois)

A reliable source in the Vatican tells us that the recent scandal over the 'nun bun' was a concerted effort to buy time and disguise an even bigger story in catholic circles, namely the well-hidden and ill-conceived affair between the entertainer Tom Jones and Mother Teresa.

Quoted as having said: "Forget Bennifer, this one's gonna rock the establishment". The aforementioned vatican source could not be pinned down for the anomalies in his spoken accent, but added that "everything that man has imagined before will change. I know a lot of you have been expecting some kind of extra-terrestrial contact to be the great leap forward in the future years. I can confirm, having witnessed some strange things around higher authorities (in the vatican), that telepathic content distribution is the new iTunes." Forget Jobs and Gates, the biohackers at BaseVat, special talent that experts here got their hands on after the breakdown of the Soviet Union, are planning big releases in the next 12 to 18 months, to regain the catholic global marketshare.

Franchising and product development secrets run riot, but our source could not confirm actual specifics, fearing reprisals. Hints were dropped, however, at the extra-commercial dimensions of the applied technology. "The big chief above is not happy about our lowered profit margins - i guess we don't have to mention the currency, eh?" He looks down, kicking the sand. "So some steps are being taken at the marketing department to ensure that our efforts are at the right frequency with out customers - hence Tom and Teresa. They are both precon 1 (special vatican scale of measurement for telepathic activity). If things get out of hand, our customers will be covered globally thanks to their child, Michael."
